Presentation & Presence Coaching

Let's make it easier for you to expand your presentation skills and create lasting impact.

I work with leaders to help them build deeper relationships and inspire more buy-in during their presentations and high-stakes conversations.

Our work together can help you become more confident and poised, increase your vocal power and stamina, and craft a unique style of presenting that marries your unique personal style with your professional goals.

Hello, I am Mari

I am passionate about helping professionals improve their leadership presence. Because, like all of us, I have seen both good and bad leaders and presenters. I have been inspired by the power of a well aligned and authentic leader sharing their vision. And I have experienced the pain of seeing brilliant thinkers who just could not get their message across effectively.

I believe many of us can do better, and our world is better when we make our voices heard. It is my calling to support diverse, interesting and meaning driven professionals to share their voices with the world.

My Background

I have been helping leaders and entrepreneurs reach their goals since the year 1999. During that time, I have spent more than 16 thousand hours coaching professionals to claim their own unique professional voices. I have also given over 1,500 speeches or performances myself.

This plethora of hands-on experience has led me to a practical and non-nonsense approach. My method combines vocal, physical, mindset and messaging techniques to ensure lasting change and a robust impact.

My work is grounded in coaching, business development, public speaking, the neuroscience of peak performance, and live theatre performance.

I am a member of the National Speakers' Association a RLMC Certified Voice Coach, a Certified Voice Recovery and Stamina specialist, and a Certified Virtual Host.

My academic background includes Theatre Arts at Colorado University and Meisner Technique Training at the prestigious Freehold Studio of Seattle. I am also a CTP graduate of Coach University.

Client Feedback

Mari is fantastic, she knows her subject inside out, her tone and demeanor are patient, supportive, and engaging, and she has a creative and fun approach to illustrating key points and learning in general. I loved the course. The outcome is that I'm a more effective communicator.

---Paul Tester, PTQ Communications, Roche

Mari is a wonderful business and speaking coach! Her skill set is diverse, meaningful, and relevant and her ability to introduce concepts that enhance speaking skills is invaluable. Mari truly helps professionals find their voices in their businesses and their lives. I highly recommend working with her to achieve your goals in business, brand, and professional speaking.
